Celebrating:

“75 Years of Mountain Search and Rescue, Rocky Mountain Rescue Group’s Service to Boulder County and beyond”

The Rocky Mountain Rescue Group (RMRG) is one of the oldest and busiest mountain search and rescue teams in the country. RMRG started as a grassroots effort in 1947 and has grown to 200 calls per year. RMRG has been a leader in developing mountain search and rescue equipment and techniques in this field that continues to evolve. RMRG’s all-volunteer professional staff provide its services for free 24 / 7 / 365. This equates to 15,000+ hours per year of search and rescue calls, training, and running this non-profit organization.

All are welcome to our open house including families. Make time in your Sunday to see demonstrations of rope skills at our tower and demonstrations of a vertical (cliff) litter rescue. There will be some activities just for kids like trying out being “rescued” in one of our litters. Take a tour of our facilities, view one of our rescue trucks with 1200 lbs. of rescue gear. You can also see the 3200’ of rope that is in each of our trucks. View a slide show of RMRG rescues and practices spanning 75 years.
